

Home Systems Protection

Home Systems Protection covers repairs or replacement costs when home systems, equipment and major appliances break down.

For example: If your furnace breaks down, you'd have insurance to pay for the cost to repair or replace it.

Why do I need it?

Modern homes are full of expensive appliances, technology and entertainment systems. This insurance covers costly home systems, protecting you from unexpected expenses if they break down suddenly and unexpectedly.

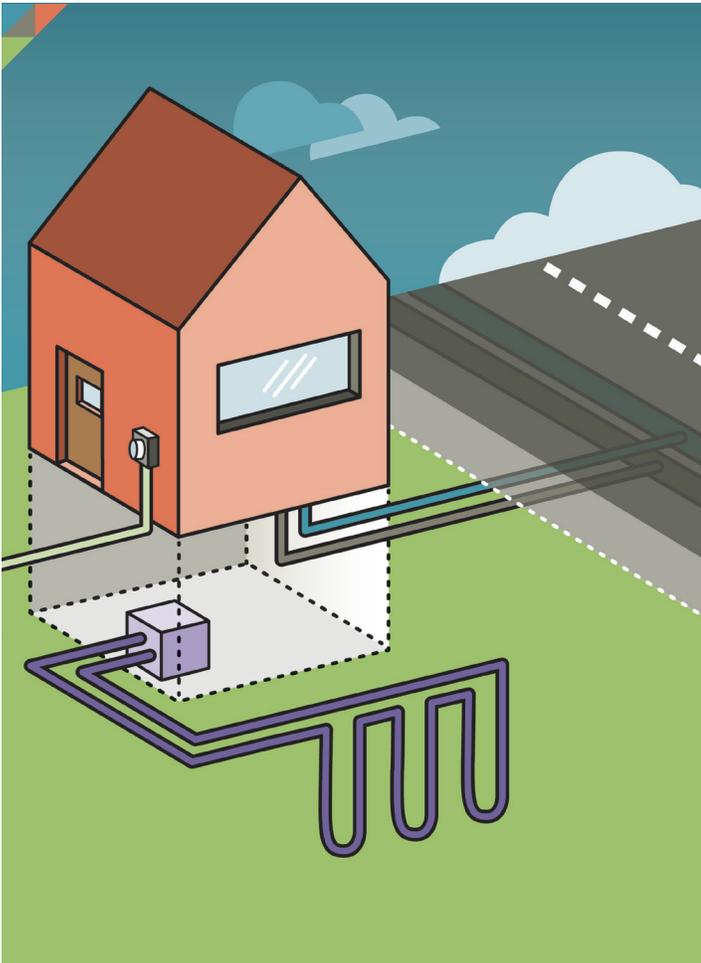

What does it cover?

Home systems and equipment such as:

- furnaces
- water heaters (conventional or solar)
- air conditioning
- kitchen and laundry appliances
- home entertainment equipment
- radiant floor heating
- air and water filtration systems
- computers, electronics and wireless devices
- exercise and power equipment
- well pumps, sump pumps or pool pumps
- electrical panels

You can have Home Systems Protection added to your existing home insurance policy or bundle it with Service Line Coverage at a discounted rate. Talk to your insurance broker today!

Service Line Coverage

Service Line Coverage covers the costs associated with repairs to underground pipes and wiring from the street to your house when damage occurs on your property.

For example: If tree roots invade your PVC water pipe causing it to snap and break, you'd have insurance to pay for the cost to dig up your yard, repair the pipe and restore the landscaping damaged by repairs.

Why do I need it?

Service lines can be damaged by tree roots, freezing, excavation and other causes. They're not typically covered under a basic home insurance policy and can be costly to repair.

Service Line Coverage protects you from these unexpected expenses no matter how old your underground lines are. It also provides coverage for additional living expenses if you can't stay in your home during or while waiting for repairs.

What does it cover?

Underground pipes and wiring such as:

- water and waste disposal lines
- drainage lines
- compressed air lines
- communication lines
- power and electrical lines
